

12,000 FRENCH FAMILIES ASK PHILANTHROPY GRANTS

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Appeals for the grant of 25,000 francs from the fund established by the French Philanthropist, Theodore Cognacq, have been made by 12,000 French families. This fund was established to assist families of nine children or more from the same parents. Ninety grants are to be made yearly from the Cognacq fund of 50,000,000 francs, recently turned over to the French Academy of Medicine for this purpose.

The money, which is to go not necessarily to the poorest families, but to the most deserving, is to be used to pay for the tuition of the children or to establish them in trades.

WOULD DEMOBILIZE TROOPS.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 31.—Prompt demobilization of State troops which are assembled at Akron for strike duty at Canton, if needed, was recommended to Governor Cox by Chairman T. J. Duffy, of the State industrial commission.

GET SOME GOOD, RICH IRON IN YOUR BLOOD AND KEEP WARM THIS WINTER. HUDSON'S IRON AND NUX TONIC, LIQUID, IS WHAT YOU NEED

Pure Blood Means Warm Bodies, Warm Bodies Mean Good Health.

Start taking this wonderful medicine now, a prescription of a famous old Virginia doctor, put up by a Virginia druggist. Read what it did for others, it will do as much for you. Now on sale at all PEOPLE'S DRUG STORES, on a positive guarantee to benefit or money refunded. The only way you can lose is by putting off getting a bottle today.

Your Hudson's Iron and Nux Tonic worked wonders for my physical condition after taking it but three days—from Tuesday to Friday. For two weeks I had been filled with cold and my whole body ached almost like toothache. I had tried three other very highly recommended remedies, but got no results. I was just recovering from the "flu" but was somewhat worried for fear I would be down with pneumonia. I bought a bottle of Hudson's Iron and Nux Tonic from Vaughan Drug Company, and after taking it three days, I was very much relieved and by the time the bottle was emptied, all symptoms of my former trouble had disappeared.

I therefore feel it my duty to voluntarily express my very great appreciation to you for placing this wonderful remedy on the market, and I cheerfully recommend its use to those suffering as I was.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) W. H. KELLEY,

ALBERT AND CONSORT SET SAIL TODAY FOR BELGIUM

Their majesties, the King and Queen of Belgium, with Prince Leopold, heir apparent, terminate today what will live in history to be a historic visit to the United States. This afternoon the royal party will embark at Newport News, sailing direct to Ostend.

Washington bid farewell to the royal visitors last night after a final day of entertainment which reached its climax in a visit to the sick room of President Wilson.

Officials Bid Goodspeed.
Members of the Cabinet and representatives of the allied embassies assembled at Union Station at midnight. There was little ceremony, no speech making. A few warm handclaps and the royal visitors were bid good luck and goodspeed on their journey home. Accompanying their majesties and the members of the party were the Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Daniels, Baron de Cartier, Belgian ambassador to the United States, and Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State. Following the sailing of the vessel from Newport News this afternoon, the Cabinet members and Baron de Cartier will return immediately to the Capital. The train left Union Station last night a little after midnight. The King and Queen stood outside of the car for awhile, bidding good-by to the officials who accompanied them to the terminal. The King told them before he left how he wished again to express his appreciation of the hospitality which had been extended throughout his entire visit in this country, and touched on the friendship between the United States and Belgium, which, he said, had become even more close.

Dinner Is Final Event.
The final event of their majesties' visit to Washington came at a dinner and reception to members of the Diplomatic Corps, held last night at the Belgium embassy, and at which the King and Queen were hosts.

Immediately following the reception the royal party made ready for the trip back to Belgium, leaving the home of Third Assistant Secretary of State Long on Sixteenth street about 11:30 o'clock last night.

The visit of the King, Queen, and Prince Leopold to the President yesterday afternoon was typical of the freedom and informality which has been an outstanding feature of their majesties' tour of the United States, and it came as a fitting climax to the visit of a democratic king to a democratic country.

With the consent of the Admiral Grayson, the President's physician, arrangements were made yesterday for the visit to the sick room, and with the announcement of the visit, the usual crowd of anxious ones to catch a glimpse of the royal party assembled at the west gates of the White House. But arrangements for the visit were unnecessary.

There was no program, nothing of formality to mark the first visit of a reigning monarch of Europe to the President of the United States in his home.

King Albert went alone to the President's room, operating the electric elevator himself. He stepped into the sick room and walked over to where the President, with an old gray sweater wrapped about his shoulders, lay propped up on the pillows. They exchanged greetings and shook hands. Then Albert, King of the Belgians, drew up a chair, and proceeded to "just talk."

Friendly Conversation.
The exchange of words between Albert, King of the Belgians, and Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, will not be written in the pages of history which tell of the visit of his majesty to this country.

Their conversation was the kind which marks the reunion of two friends. Mr. Wilson expressed his gratification at being able to see King Albert and showed much interest in his majesty's short narrative concerning his trans-continental trip.

The King spoke of the wonderful development he had noticed in the United States since his visit here twenty years ago, and when the President's physician, Admiral Grayson, held up a warning hand and said the visit must terminate, President Wilson asked to see Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold.

Queen Elizabeth and her son were shown into the sick room and spoke for a few minutes with President Wilson.

"Your father is every inch a man, and I hope you will follow in his footsteps," President Wilson told the prince as he shook hands with him. And as King Albert left the room, he told the President: "I hope your ideals will be carried out, and I believe they will."

Annapolis Cheers King.
The President told both their majesties he was feeling much better, and following the visit Dr. Grayson said Mr. Wilson had seemed greatly cheered at seeing the King and Queen again.

Yesterday morning King Albert endeavored himself to the midshipmen at Annapolis and heard his title of "King" shouted at the end of a navy yell by more than 1,000 enthusiastic young men. The King reviewed the future admirals, and asked Rear Admiral A. H. Scales, commanding officer, to extend some privilege to him.

Admiral Scales had a very happy thought, in the midshipmen's estimation, when he made the "present" from King Albert consist in the lifting of all extra duty for one month, this extra duty having been earned by some of the young sailors for infraction of the Academy rules during the month.

Following the review the King conferred decorations on Admiral Scales, Capt. C. W. T. Cluversius, and Comdr. A. P. Fairfield and W. H. Vernou.

During the King's visit to Annapolis, Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by only two members of her party and an official of the State Department, visited Baltimore and talked

LIT OF New York Is Becoming Moral—If Statistics Don't Lie

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Sinful lit of New York is becoming moral.

True, it isn't any paragon of virtue yet, but progress is being made, according to statistics made public today by Chief Magistrate McAdoo, based on the number of cases in the women's night court.

In September for instance, 138 women were hauled into court on immorality charges, as compared with 296 for last May. Figures on the same month a year and two years ago were 372 and 344, respectively.

with blind soldiers in the Johns Hopkins Hospital there. Her visit was short and she returned to Washington immediately after its termination.

Part of yesterday afternoon was devoted to the reception of delegates by both the King and Queen. The King was made a doctor of laws by the George Washington University, while Trinity College conferred the degree of doctor of letters upon Queen Elizabeth. George Washington University held its exercises in the Memorial Continental Hall. The presentation was made by the president of the university, William Miller Collier.

From Continental Hall King Albert went direct to Catholic University, where Knights of Mt. St. Sepulcher, dressed in their white uniforms, received him. Cardinal Gibbons welcomed the ruler as "one of the most inspiring heroes of ancient or modern times."

The cardinal afterward conferred the university's degree upon the King. The ceremonies took place in McMahon Hall.

At Trinity College the Queen received the degree of doctor of letters, and incidentally made her only formal speech delivered in this country. In replying to the words of the faculty members who gave her the degree, he said:

Queen's Address.
"I am most grateful to your eminence for the kind words which you have spoken, and I deeply appreciate the high honor which has been conferred upon me by Trinity College."

"I discern in this attention a desire to glorify Belgium through me and to emphasize the unity of ideas which exist between our countries."

"Intellectual Belgium holds the American universities in high esteem; we know that these centers of culture are the hearths on which burn the fires of justice, beauty and truth; therefore, I am proud to be admitted by Trinity College to the degree of doctor of letters."

"This ceremony gives me the opportunity of expressing to the Sisters of Notre Dame of Namur and their pupils my deep gratitude for the devotion and assistance they have shown during our days of trial."

"I form the best wishes for the further success and prosperity of Trinity College which is so closely connected with Belgium."

THE "BLUES"

Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people who worry, are despondent, have spells of mental depression, feel blue and are often irascibly, believe that these conditions are due to outside influences over which they have little or no control. Nearly always, however, they can be traced to an internal source—acid-stomach. Not is it to be wondered at. Acid-stomach, beginning with such well defined symptoms as indigestion, belching, heartburn, bloating, etc., will, if not checked, in time affect to some degree or other all the vital organs. The nervous system becomes deranged. Depression suffers. The blood is impoverished. Health and strength are undermined. The victim of acid-stomach, although he may not know the cause of his ailments, feels his hope, courage, ambition and energy slipping. And truly life is dark—not worth much to the man or woman who has acid-stomach!

Get rid of it! Don't let acid-stomach hold you back, wreck your health, make you miserable, make you a victim of the "blues" and gloom. There is a marvelous modern remedy called EATONIC that brings you such quick relief from your stomach troubles, when your stomach is right—makes you feel good, comfortable, vigorous, healthy, strong, cool, sweet, and happy. It gives you back your strength, vigor, vitality, and puts you on the good road. So many thousands of people who suffer from acid-stomach and who have tried every other remedy, have found EATONIC with such marvellously helpful results that we are sure you will feel the same when you try it. Get a box of EATONIC—the good tasting tablets that you can take a bit of candy—from any drug store, or write to us for a free money if results are not even more than you expect.

MAGICIANS OPPOSE REVEALING TRICKS

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—There is strife in the ranks of the magicians. Left wings and right wings, formerly confined to feathered creatures and wild feds, who prefer tar with their feathers, have developed in the Dill Pickles Club, which is composed of those who make a fight against the H. C. of L. by convincing the public that the hand is speedier than the optics. One element of the club opposes showing the public how tricks are performed. The schism came out here today when Ching Sing Fo took the floor. For ten burning minutes he filled the air of the Dill Pickles Club with staccato Cantonese invective. The other magicians sat quietly stupefied by his machine gun delivery.

Then he relapsed and Ching Yet

Sun retailed his compatriot's oration less pictorially.

"Ching says if the profession don't lay off his fire eating act, which is his own invention, he will start a Tong War," said Ching. "He says he is for the left wing of the magicians and don't believe in giving away any tricks to the customers."

Which nettled wild applause from the audience, for the convention of conjurers, in session today, is way off the right wing. They say it is ruining the magician's profession.

The right wing, it seems, is the American Association of Magicians. They have sanctioned the showing of how the little rabbit can be plucked out of the cream puff. This is purely unethical, the left wing contends.

This is not the only question before the convention.

There is the matter of the perennial ace. Now, by professional manipulation of one lone ace—picked from any trade deck—four aces can be made to appear. The Lorelle Mirror, an extra smart dresser, on and off, is accused of selling this trick to gamblers who have need for a stray ace now and then. The Lorelle Mirror denies the charge, so help 'im.
